

Board of Trustees

Marilee Scarbrough joins the Clark College Board of Trustees.

Clark College welcomed a new trustee and said farewell to an outgoing trustee at its June 7 Board of Trustees meeting.

Board President Paul Speer and Clark President Dr. Karin Edwards welcomed Marilee Scarbrough to its governing board and thanked Trustee Rekah Strong, who has served on the board for a decade. She is the executive director of Educational Opportunities for Children and Families.

and inclusion have fostered meaningful cultural change during her tenure here.

Marilee Scarbrough, an attorney, has been general counsel for the Vancouver School District since 2011. Previously she served as the policy and legal services director for Washington State School Directors' Association, and attorney for the Washington State House of Representatives' Higher Education Committee. Scarbrough holds a Juris Doctor from University of Oregon and a Bachelor of Arts degree in English literature from Whitman College.

"I am excited to serve my community in this new role," said Trustee Scarbrough. "I look forward to working with the Clark College board and administration to inspire learners to excel, transform lives, and strengthen our increasingly diverse community."

About Clark College Board of Trustees

Each of the five members of the college's Board of Trustees is appointed by the governor of Washington and serves a five-year term. They must live within the college's service district, which includes Clark, Skamania and western Klickitat counties.

The board seeks to ensure the quality and relevance of college programs and provides stewardship of public resources. The board is responsible for strategic planning, development and approval of college policies, and approval and oversight of the operating budget. Learn more here.
