“The beauty of community college is that you have people who will wrap around you and show you the way,” she said.

Trustee Strong told the students, “You already understand that excelling in your academic life opens doors for you. You’ve found the internal tenacity, the internal drive. Make sure you hold onto that. It makes me excited how every one of you will influence this community.”

Interim Vice President of Instruction Dr. Jim Wilkins-Luton did a show-and-tell with his martial arts white belt and black belt. He challenged students to consider what their own black belt journey—a long-held goal or dream—might be.

He asked, “What’s one thing you can do tomorrow to start your black belt journey?”

Michelle Lowery, Clark alumni and past PTK officer, told students the value of PTK and how it influenced her life. She said, "I want to thank the PTK members who helped me to see the good I can do."
