

Communications Studies hosts WSU transfer panel

Clark College students considering a future in communication had a unique opportunity to connect with experts from Washington State University's renowned Edward R. Murrow College of Communication.